University of Lincoln
School of Computer Science
UG Criterion Reference Grid 2023-2024

CMP3750 Cyber Security A2 2023-2024

Learning Outcome	Criterion	Pass	2:2	2:1	1
[LO2] differentiate between types of attacks and critically assess their impact.	A network scanning tool has been developed, tested and results presented. (40%)	A tool has been developed, with limited capability, but can perform a basic scan. The results are inconclusive or poorly presented	A tool has been developed, with limited capability, but can perform a basic scan. The results lack detail.	A tool has been developed, which is able to perform a comprehensive scan on all 4 elements. Results are presented, but these lack any detail.	A tool has been developed, which is able to perform a comprehensive scan on all 4 elements. Detailed results are presented.
	A discussion critiquing the pros and cons of using network scanning tools. Possible attacks have been critiqued. (40%)	There is a limited discussion which lacks detail and does not fully address the pros and cons. A few attacks have been identified with a limited discussion and almost no critical analysis.	There is a limited discussion which is lacking in detail but does address some pros and cons. A few attacks have been identified with a limited discussion, with a little critical analysis.	There is a thorough discussion which mostly addresses the pros and cons. Attacks have been identified with a detailed discussion; critical analysis could be further expanded.	There is a comprehensive discussion which fully addresses the pros and cons. Attacks have been identified with a meticulous discussion and critical analysis.
	A reflection on the activity, what you have learned, and the implications of this activity has been included. (20%)	A reflection is included which is concise with a limited discussion on the implications of this activity.	A reflection is included which is honest, but lacks much in the way of content. Comments are broad and generic. A few implications have been addressed	A reflection is included which is honest, but is lacking in detailed content. Comments are broad and generic.	A detailed and honest reflection is included which addresses both positive and negative elements.

Weighting is 50% of the module